Hi Brad,

How are you doing? I hope the new(ish) job is treating you well. EPA is much the same, but with some new faces on both the criminal and civil side.

I have a random question that I'm hoping you can help me answer. EPA received a request from Charles (Chuck) Pillon for voluntary written testimony in the form of an affidavit from one of our employees. EPA is conducting it's standard Touhy analysis. Mr. Pillon failed to indicate the actual case against him – he has vaguely referenced a state action regarding litter and an ~$4 million fine. I have not been successful in getting a case citation from Mr. Pillon or the court where this is proceeding. Mr. Pillon said his next pleading is due in mid-November. Based on this information, is there any chance you can hunt down the case name, docket number, and court?

Sorry for the strange request out of the blue, but I thought you might be able to help. As far as I know, the AAG who previously worked on this case (Scott Marlow) is no longer with the Environmental Protection group. You were probably the person who told me that.

Thanks in advance for any help you can provide.

Take care and stay safe during these trying times.

Kris
